

Wyandot County Family Support Connect & Share

Parents and families of children and adults with developmental disabilities coming together to learn, connect and share with other parents, families, educators and disability professionals.

PRESENTS:

“What You Don’t Know Can Hurt You: The Hidden Curriculum of Interacting with Law Enforcement”

Tuesday, November 14, 2017 6:30 - 8:00 pm

Angeline School Cafeteria

11028 County Road 44 Upper Sandusky, Ohio

to RSVP please contact:

Camille Swartz • 419-294-4901 • swartz@angeline.com OR

Paula Frey • 419-294-3445 • pfrey@ncoesc.org

Presentations are FREE and attendees are encouraged to share this opportunity with other parents and families who may be interested.

Linell Weinburg, Executive Director of the Northwest Ohio Autism Society will present on what parents should teach their children and young adults with Autism Spectrum Disorder about interacting with law enforcement.

Did you know.... Individuals with developmental disabilities, including autism are seven more times likely to have an encounter with a police officer as compared to typical peers. If your child were to encounter a police officer while out in the community without you, would he/she know what to do or say?

Family Support Connect & Share will provide families with an overview of a curriculum that provides transition youth and adults with autism and other developmental disabilities how to interact with law enforcement. Linell will include videos, useful handouts and other “freebies” about carrying identification, telling an officer you have a disability, relaxation techniques and much more!